2. Title and thumbnail

Title (locked, vidIQ score 93)

Nathanael Greene's Top 3 Legendary Tactical Moves | The Man Who Drove the British Out of the South

Alternatives (not scored: the vidIQ credits ran out on 27 Oct, they refill on 22 Nov):

- Nathanael Greene's Top 3 Legendary Tactical Moves | The Man Who Broke Cornwallis
- Nathanael Greene's Top 3 Legendary Tactical Moves | The Man Who Won the South by Losing

Rejected: the first Greene title ("He Lost Almost Every Battle and Won the South: ...", hook first, name last) breaks the TG title rule (HANDOVER §10).

Why this thumbnail

Alternative for YouTube's Test & compare: LOSE TO WIN (type 1 paradox, zero context needed).

The whole picture (battlefield + colour portrait) was generated by vidIQ for the first Greene video (owner rule: colour, generated whole). Only the banner is new: the old 4-word banner (THEIR VICTORIES / RUINED THEM) was removed because the rule is 1-3 words. The portrait is an AI painting in the style of Peale's portrait, not a claimed likeness. vidIQ had 0 credits on 27 Oct, so no new picture was generated.

Before uploading: check the thumbnail at small size on a phone.

3. Description (copy and paste)

The first line is the title. Everything after it is the description: ready to paste, with NO links (channel rule). Keep the credit lines: the music, sound and image licences require them.

Nathanael Greene's Top 3 Legendary Tactical Moves | The Man Who Drove the British Out of the South

In the spring of 1780, the whole American army in the South was trapped inside one city, Charleston:
 five thousand soldiers surrendered in one day. Then one general lost almost every battle he fought in the South, and drove the British out anyway.

Nathanael Greene took command of 1,500 starving men against 8,000 British. In this video we break down his three greatest tactical moves on animated maps: the Race to the Dan, where he led Lord Cornwallis two hundred miles across North Carolina to a flooded river with no boats; Guilford Courthouse, where he let the British win a battle that cost them more than a quarter of their army; and the reconquest of the South, from Hobkirk's Hill and Ninety Six to Eutaw Springs. Seven months after Guilford, Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown.

Make the land fight for you. Make every victory cost more than it's worth. And never lose the army.

Which was his greatest move: 1, 2 or 3? Tell us in the comments, and tell us which commander we should cover next.

Upload checklist

- Play the 1080p master through once (sound, sync, no black frames).
- Upload the master.
- Paste title, description and tags; upload the thumbnail (1280x720).
- Tick 'altered or synthetic content'.
- Add the end screen (Daniel Morgan video + subscribe); set visibility and schedule.
- After 24-48 h: check CTR (target >= 4 %) and retention (>= 65 % at 0:30, >= 55 % at 1:00); save the read as youtube/analytics_.md.

Facts to double-check before publishing (from memory or single source; see research/FACT_NOTES*.md):
• Guilford returns: British 93 killed / 413 wounded / 26 missing = 532; American 79 killed / 185 wounded (+ militia gone home).
• Eutaw returns: American 139 / 375 / 8; British 85 / 351 / 257 (~693).
• Greene a private in the Kentish Guards (1774), refused a commission because of his limp; put out of his Quaker meeting (1773).
• Cowan's Ford (1 Feb 1781, Davidson killed), Trading Ford (3 Feb), the council of war (9 Feb), Greene's ~100-mile ride to join Morgan.
• Dugald Stuart's 'half of the Highlanders' line; Greene's 'seventeen rounds'; wounded left at the New Garden meeting house.
• Fort Watson 23 Apr, Orangeburg 11 May, Fort Motte 12 May, Augusta 5 Jun 1781; Ninety Six siege 22 May-19 Jun.
• Cornwallis's grapeshot order is told 'according to tradition'.
• Positions of Irwin's and Dix's ferries, the Guilford lines and the Eutaw house are approximate; control areas per date are approximate.
• Image licence: H. Charles McBarron's Guilford painting (US Army commission, treated as public domain; Commons template not re-checked).
