Gofile deletes guest uploads after a period without downloads: download the 1080p master soon and keep it.

Rebuild from scratch

1. Re-render the map scenes (see HANDOVER.md §5). 2. From belisarius/: `python3 tools/assemble_full.py` (video + mix, about 30 min) or `--mix-only` (audio changes only, about 10 min). The build fails on purpose if the music/SFX bed is less than 15 dB under the voice.

Description (copy-paste; also in youtube_description.txt)

How did one general keep beating armies twice his size? Belisarius, the "Last of the Romans", defeated the Persians at Dara, destroyed the Vandal kingdom at Tricamarum, and held Rome with about 5,000 men against the entire Gothic nation. These are his three greatest tactical moves, told with animated battle maps.

Belisarius's method: Shape the battlefield. Strike what holds them together. Make time fight for you.

Which commander should I cover next? Tell me in the comments.

Ancient numbers are uncertain; where sources disagree the video gives a range (e.g. the Gothic army at Rome: 150,000 per Procopius, 20,000-30,000 per modern estimates).

3 - Fact sheet (for comments and corrections)

Move	Numbers used in the video	Result
Dara, summer 530	Romans ~25,000 vs Persians 40,000 + 10,000 reinforcements; 300 Heruli hidden behind a hill; Belisarius aged 25	Persian rout; ~5,000 killed on one wing alone
Tricamarum, Dec 533	Roman cavalry ~5,000 (infantry hours behind) vs Vandals 15,000-30,000 (modern estimates)	Fewer than 50 Romans and ~800 Vandals killed (Procopius); Gelimer surrenders March 534
Siege of Rome, 537-538	~5,000 defenders; Goths 150,000 (Procopius) or 20,000-30,000 (modern); walls 12 miles, 18 gates	Siege lifted after a year and nine days

Corrections made to the Gemini research (details in FACTS.md)

- Tricamarum Roman strength: ~5,000 cavalry, not 8,000.
- Dara Persian losses: ~5,000 on the left wing (Procopius), not 8,000 overall. The 'horses' faces' detail was dropped (not in Procopius).
- Gate locks at Rome were changed twice a month, not daily.
- Tricamarum sequence: the Vandals fell back to camp; Gelimer fled when Belisarius advanced with infantry in the evening.
- The blinding / begging story is presented as a later legend. Belisarius died at home in 565.
- The San Vitale figure is 'traditionally identified' as Belisarius, not certain.

Likely comment: 'Byzantine, not Roman!' Answer: they called themselves Romans; 'Byzantine' is a later historians' term.

4 - Known issues and next steps

- Dara scene: the DARA fortress label is clipped at the top edge in one shot; a '300' label touches the right edge.
- Rome scene: a small label nudge (PLAIN OF NERO) is in rome.js but was not re-rendered.
- Gelimer engraving is only 500 px wide (shown whole over a blurred background).
- SFX are synthesized (Wikimedia blocked downloads); swap in recorded SFX later if they sound thin.
- Loudness is -15.3 LUFS (YouTube target -14): fine, YouTube does not turn quieter videos up much, but you can raise it in a final pass.
- Next video candidates: research/VIDEO_IDEAS_v2.md. Start a fresh session per video (HANDOVER.md §0b).
